

President Roosevelt Says His Policy Will Be Fully Maintained

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt, in his address at the Auditorium to-day, said:

"There has been trouble in the stock market, in the high financial world during the past few months. The statement has frequently been made that the policies for which I stand, legislative and executive, are responsible for that trouble.

"Now, these policies of mine can be summed up in one brief sentence—they represent the effort to punish successful dishonesty.

"I doubt if these politics have had any material effect in bringing about the present trouble, but if they have, it will not alter the slightest degree my determination that for the remaining sixteen months of my term, these politics shall be persevered in unswervingly."

The company officials declared that the suspension of payment was only temporary.

The closing of the doors of the institution was attended with sensational scenes at its main banking room and the Harlem branch depositors who crowded the rooms clamoring for their money were

THUGS HOLD UP RESTAURANT

GREEK OWNER IS BADLY BEATEN

SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Four desperate thugs made a futile attempt to hold up the restaurant of E. Anasios at 1197 Turk street at an early hour this morning and only the bravery of Peter Kanatsky, who was left in charge, saved the place from being rifled and considerable money taken.

The hold-up was well planned and the robbers very nearly succeeded in carrying it through. It was just 1 o'clock that the four men entered the place. Two of them took seats near the door, while the other two went into a box toward the rear. Peter Kanatsky was alone in the restaurant at the time, and he proceeded to wait on the men in the box first. They both ordered a pepper roast, but as soon as he had gone to prepare it they called for a glass of water. When he returned with the water and was placing it on the table he found himself looking down the muzzle of two revolvers, which were pointed at his head and he was commanded to throw up his hands. The men at the

WOMAN VICTIM OF TRAGEDY AT ELMHURST HOME

Husband Leaves Gun Cocked and Accidentally Fires It.

ELMHURST, Oct. 22.—Partly clad and while in the kitchen in the act of dressing her four-year-old adopted child, Mrs. Laura Sweeney received the full charge of shot from a shotgun this morning at 6:30 o'clock, which her husband, J. L. Sweeney, had just picked up in order to kill some birds in the back yard of his 4-room bungalow in the Kin-cell tract on Fourth avenue, Elmhurst.

The mother, lifting her hands to her face streaming with blood and half torn away by the gunshot, gave one shriek and fell to the floor. The elder child, a boy of eight, rushed over to a clergyman's house nearby and the minister telephoned for Dr. Evelyn, but before the physician arrived the woman was dead.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

It appears that Mrs. Sweeney was accidental. The husband was grinding coffee and seeing birds in the back yard called to his wife to hand him the shot.

OLIVE SCULLY SOBS AS LAWYER PLEADS FOR HER

State Senator Philip M. Walsh, associated with John J. Allen and James

Creely in the defense of Olive Scully, now on trial for her life for the murder of James Glover, her paramour, opened the case for his client in a brilliant speech to the jury this morning.

A large crowd assembled to hear the opening address and were well paid for their efforts. Appealing, threatening, cajoling, commanding, requesting, the clever attorney in turn carried his hearers through a pitiful story which probably has many duplicates in "the world beyond the dead line."

WOMAN WEEPS BITTERLY.

As he proceeded to tell of the miserable home life experienced by Olive Scully in her early days, the young woman's sisters, Lily and Grace Bechtel, broke into wild uncontrolled weeping, the former becoming so hysterical that she was forced to leave the court room.

TAYLOR FORCES LANGDON TO STOP OPEN FIGHT FOR RYAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—As soon as Mayor Taylor's friends learned yesterday that District Attorney Langdon would vote and work for Daniel Ryan for Mayor, the leaders had a hurried meeting and at once brought pressure to bear on Langdon showing him that if he did not stop making an open fight for Ryan he would lose every Taylor vote in the city. Later in the day Langdon made the following statement:

"The report that I have announced that I am going to support and vote for Mr. Ryan or any other candidate for Mayor is without foundation. I will not take any hand in the mayoralty contest. I shall continue to prosecute the non-partisan campaign for the district attorney's office that I have been making. I am fighting for a principle and shall not take any other part in this campaign."

It will be observed that in the above declaration Mr. Langdon does not deny that he will vote for Ryan for Mayor.

HIGHWAYMAN DRIVEN OFF

Motorman's Cries Alarm Robber Who Holds Up Street Car.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—A masked highwayman attempted to hold car 1217 of the Twenty-ninth Mission and Richmond line at 11:45 last night at the corner of Twelfth avenue and Fulton street. There was only one passenger on the car at the time and he was on the front near the motorman.

The robber boarded the car and, presenting the revolver, ordered the conductor, Charles Altman, to throw up his hands. Instead of complying the carman jumped off the car and, running to the sidewalk, shouted lustily for help.

Taking alarm at this the highwayman also jumped off the car and ran into Golden Gate park. The conductor reported the affair to Policeman W. H. King and a search was instituted, but without result.

The robber is described about five feet eight inches in height, wore dark clothes, black soft hat, black mask, and light overcoat.

May Indict 800 for Sunday Law Violation

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22.—Between 700 and 800 indictments will, it is expected, be returned by the grand jury this week, for violation of the law against working on Sunday.

FORD JURY COMPLETED AFTER WAR OF WORDS

prosecution is relying solely on circumstantial evidence. No juror was accepted who would not state that he would bring in a verdict of guilty on circumstantial evidence, if the evidence was sufficient to warrant a conviction. It is also the general impression that the jury will not be called unless it will be on rebuttal to combat whatever evidence the defense may introduce.

RUEF HOLDS OUT.

That Ruef is holding out for an immunity contract and his contemplated trip to Europe before he will consent to go on the stand and testify against Ford, is also the general impression. The speed with which the present jury was secured came as a surprise to all connected with the case. The trial was begun last Thursday. At that time a panel of three hundred and fifty jurors was secured. It was the general belief at that time that this would not be sufficient to more than half fill the box, yet less than eight jurors were examined. The box was filled in three and one-half days.

Throughout the examination of the takersmen Ford has paid the strictest attention to all details. Earl Rogers, his chief counsel, has conducted the examination, assisted by Stanley Moore.

A. A. Moore, Louis F. Byington, Alexander C. King and William M. Abbott are also assisting in the defense.

When the last juror was sworn, the indictment on which Ford is being tried was read to the jurors. They were then placed in the sheriff's charge and will be kept apart from every person, save the judge, until the trial ends. They will be quartered at the Fairmont Hotel.

When court opened Henry sought the discharge of temporary juror Sidney Kahn, who he practically charged with perjury last night. Rogers took occasion to refer to Henry as a bluffer who had failed to take good and also charged him with attempting to intimidate the other jurors by his tactics. Kahn is charged by Henry with having spoken slightly of the prosecution. Kahn was finally excused on the ground that he was not on the assessment roll.

Shortly before the close of the morning session if he appeared to the court to protect him against Rogers' statements, telling the court that if he were not afforded protection he would protect himself.

The case promises to be one of the most hard-fought of any of the so-called graft cases. The fact that the wielders of the "big stick" are becoming more and more unpopular in San Francisco is recognized by the clubbers and for this reason great care was manifested in the selection of the jury. The court room was fairly well filled when the last juror was sworn. Most of the boodling supervisors were present, having been subpoenaed as witnesses in the case. They will again go on the stand and repeat their tales of shame and corruption. Patrick Calhoun has been present since the beginning of the case and follows all details carefully.

It was announced that when court convened at 2 o'clock Henry would make his opening address to the jury. It was expected that the opening address of Rogers would also be made this afternoon and that the first witnesses will go on tomorrow.

The trial is now fully launched and both sides are prepared for one of the hardest struggles that has yet been seen in the local courts.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Henry's denouncing Juror Kahn as an enemy to the prosecution, created a diversion in Judge Lawlor's courtroom, where they were on trial for alleged bribery, shortly before the session ended yesterday afternoon. Henry accused the juror, who had been passed by himself for the prosecution and the defense, of having denounced him (Henry) as not being sincere. Henry made the juror swear he had not done so within the last month. The prosecution then told the court that he would produce a witness this morning to prove his statement.

"The peremptory challenges were to be used yesterday afternoon," Henry accused Juror Jenkel of making certain statements, which the juror denied. "Since you have been on this jury haven't you stated that Ford was such a nice-looking man that it would be a shame to convict him?" asked Henry. "No, sir," I did not.

"That's all, but I would like to ask Mr. Caswell a few questions," said Henry.

He then inquired of Caswell if he had not expressed the opinion that the prosecution had gone too far. Caswell denied this.

Henry then used the first peremptory challenge on Juror Jenkel. The juror was then challenged by M. F. Coe.

"The State is satisfied with the jury as it now stands," said Henry.

"We excuse Mr. Andrew E. Smith," said Rogers, and the old sea captain, who had been in the morning, also walked out.

Rogers also excused J. R. Smith. This leaves four peremptory challenges still with the State and seven peremptories yet remaining with the defense.

EIGHT JURORS SWORN.
The remaining eight jurors were then sworn to try the case.

Four more jurors were then called and sworn. The first to be examined was William R. Chambers, who had no opinion and was sure he could give satisfactory testimony. The jury then was sworn to try the case.

Chambers expressed himself as sure that he had no leaning either way and that he would be able to give a fair and impartial verdict.

Moore passed him. Peter Neumann, a coal dealer, was next examined. He informed Henry that he had no leaning against either the defense or prosecution, and that he was willing to bring in a verdict on circumstantial evidence if the evidence was strong enough.

"If it should appear that the supervisors were granted immunity, would that interfere with your verdict?" Henry inquired.

"No, sir."

"Do you know of any reason why you could not act as a fair and impartial juror?"

"No, I don't."

"We pass the juror," said Henry.

"You say you don't read the papers because you don't get time. Mr. Neumann," asked Stanley Moore.

"I only read the shipping news."

"And you have never read anything regarding this case?"

"No, sir."

"Have you ever had an opinion in this, or any of these other cases?"

"No, I have not."

EXPRESSED AN OPINION.
"Have you any opinion as to whether or not money was passed to the supervisors?"

"Yes, I believe money was passed."

"And it would take strong evidence to remove this opinion?"

"Yes."

Moore challenged and the juror was excused.

Louis Jacobs, a box maker came next. He stated that he was not on the assessment roll and was challenged and excused.

John C. Howlett, a contractor, who was next called, stated that he was not on the assessment roll and was likewise excused. The court instructed the clerk to call three more jurors.

William MacNevin, a real estate man, was then examined. He was acquainted with both Theodore Mullally and Lewis F. Byington. MacNevin admitted an opinion, which he described as rather changeable.

"How did it happen that it is changeable?" asked Henry.

"Well, it switched around after my unfortunate transaction with Abe Ruef," replied the juror.

"You have had some dealings with Mr. Ruef?"

"Yes."

"Do you know any reason why you couldn't act as a fair juror?"

"Well, no, provided Ruef doesn't go on the stand."

"You wouldn't believe him?"

"Under no circumstances," replied MacNevin.

"But if he was not called, you would be fair and impartial?"

"Yes."

Henry then passed the juror.

Rogers, after a few minor questions and a short examination, likewise passed the juror.

Henry then examined Chauncey S. Blair, a retired pattern maker, who admitted having an opinion, but stated it could be removed by evidence. He had no objection to convicting on circumstantial evidence. He testified that he had known Ford at the time Ford was attorney-general of the State and had liked him very much. He stated that he would not influence his verdict and Henry passed him.

HENRY PLAYING POKER.
Henry's action in passing MacNevin and Blair came as a surprise to all in the courtroom. Speculation as to what the prosecutor had up his sleeve, or as to whether or not he was again playing poker with the defense was rampant. These two men were evidently hostile to the prosecution.

Rogers' examination of Blair was brief. He touched on Blair's understanding of the immunity contracts, and asked him if he was sure he would consider the evidence carefully.

A. A. Moore then relieved Rogers and put Blair through a grilling cross-examination. Blair proved one of the cleverest evaders that has yet been seen in the box. An old man with a piping voice, he was yet able to evade all the thrusts of questions of the veteran lawyer, and was passed.

John Flaherty, a contractor, was next examined. He knew none of the members of the defense and was impartial, having no opinion. After a few questions Henry passed him.

Stanley Moore cross-examined. Flaherty testified that he had been in the business for the last fourteen years. He stated that he was one of the local newspapers. He had taken no part in the industrial problems and had not taken sides in the street car strike. He testified that he had held his opinions in abeyance.

Stanley Moore's examination was searching. Moore finally challenged on the ground that the juror was prejudiced and that he held the opinion that the supervisors were bribed. Henry then testified the challenge. Judge Lawlor asked the juror a few questions and disallowed the challenge.

EXCUSES MACNEVIN.

Henry then asked Juror MacNevin if he could credit Ruef's statements on the stand. MacNevin said he could give Ruef's testimony no credit. Henry then challenged. A. A. Moore contested the challenge on the ground that it was not known whether or not the prosecution intended to call Ruef.

Henry replied that as the prosecution did not know what evidence the defense would put on, it might be necessary to call Ruef in rebuttal. Judge Lawlor then allowed the challenge and MacNevin was excused.

Albert W. Morgan, an insurance broker, was then called to be examined for the remaining vacancy in the box. He admitted having an opinion, but said he would put it aside and give a fair hearing if he was chosen as a juror. Henry passed him.

Rogers put the juror through a grilling. Rogers made Juror Morgan admit that he had taken sides in the car strike and that his conviction was such that it would take much and strong evidence to remove it. Rogers challenged and the juror was excused.

The clerk then called Sydney Kahn, a florist and decorator.

Henry growing loud mouthed, demanded if Kahn had not denounced the prosecution on many occasions. Kahn denied it. He finally admitted having thought Henry was not sincere when he first came to the city.

Kahn admitted being a friend and admirer of Abe Ruef and Schmidt. He professed to have no opinion in the present case. His answers were such that Henry passed him.

Rogers asked but few questions and passed the juror.

Henry asked Kahn if he would swear that he had not denounced the prosecution within the last month. Kahn did so and Henry then told the court that he had witnesses to call in this matter.

The morning and afternoon sessions were not held on the ground that Kahn's case was settled.

Judge Lawlor then admonished the jurors not to discuss the case and adjourned court until 9 o'clock this morning.

KAHN NOT ON ROLL.

Judge Lawlor called court to order promptly at 9 o'clock. Tax Collector Nichols was placed on the stand with one of the ledgers, a part of the assessment roll. Henry asked if Juror Sidney Kahn's name was on the roll. Nichols said that it was not, and on these grounds Henry challenged. Rogers denied the challenge and examined the ledger. Rogers questioned Nichols to determine whether or not there was a mistake. Rogers then turned to the juror and said:

"Now, your honor, there were tactics made use of in this case, which, if the counsel does not make good, must be considered to be an attempt to terrorize other jurors. I have had some experience in court and I have never seen tactics of this kind employed before. As I said, if these charges are not made good it will show that it was merely a bluff, and an effort to terrorize other jurors."

Rogers voice was cold and cutting, and Henry, during the trial, had heard this contempt expressed in the Southern lawyer's voice. Rogers referred to Henry's statement just before court adjourned last night to the effect that he would bring witnesses to prove that Kahn had denounced the prosecution. Henry at that time hinted strongly at perjury, and it was expected that the prosecution would attempt to prove that Kahn was guilty of perjury.

When Rogers completed his statement to the court Henry sprang to his feet.

"I can prove that this juror, who has just been sworn, has been in the city for a long time. It was in either the Schmidt or Ruef trial, I forgot which, but he told a certain man that he was going to get on the jury and show that Henry what he thought of him."

JUROR EXCUSED.
The red-faced assistant district attorney shouted this in his loudest tones, hammering his left hand with his right fist to emphasize his statement.

"Was this within the last month?" asked Rogers, referring to Henry's statement that he would prove Kahn had denounced the prosecution.

"It don't matter whether it was within the last month or not," yelled Henry in reply, "that has nothing to do with the challenge now before the court."

Said Judge Lawlor, referring to the grounds that Kahn was not on the assessment roll.

"We cannot deny that challenge," said Rogers.

The juror is excused," said Judge Lawlor.

"Call another juror."

George J. Porter, a contractor, then took the vacant seat in the box and was examined by Henry.

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGED.
Expressing himself as fair and impartial, with only a slight opinion which could be easily set aside by evidence, Porter proved satisfactory to Henry and he was passed by the State.

Henry cross-examined for the defense and soon passed the juror.

"People's peremptory challenge," said Judge Lawlor.

DISTRUST SUPERVISORS.
John B. Davitt, a baker, then was called. He stated that he knew Theodore Mullally, John Flaherty, two of the supervisors, and also a few more questions, Rogers passed the juror.

Henry expressed himself as satisfied. Thomas Murphy, superintendent of the Metropolitan Light and Power Company, who was next called, expressed himself as being against the immunity bath, stating that he believed all the bootlickers and those who gave the bribes should be punished. Despite this fact Henry passed the juror.

On cross-examination, Joyce assured Rogers that he believed the supervisors had been bribed but it would not influence his ballot. Rogers passed the juror and after a few more questions, Rogers passed the juror.

WHY DANIEL RYAN SHOULD BE MADE MAYOR

FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER OF OCTOBER 21, 1907

"The Examiner" set forth yesterday the reasons which justified it in advising its readers to vote for Daniel A. Ryan for Mayor, instead of P. H. McCarthy, who has permitted himself to be placed in a position where he stands for grafters, if not for graft, or of Dr. Taylor, who was dragged from an honorable retirement to pose as a figure of respectability for a group of schemers, who are seeking to set aside a republican form of government that they, as an inner circle, may rule the city for their own ends.

We believe the voters will recognize that the reasons given are sound, and that there is a ring of righteous protest against the efforts of these men who are trying to defeat a man they cannot attack, merely because he was enough of an independent American citizen to refuse to take orders from Rudolph Spreckels, who seems to feel that his millions are a warrant to rule regardless of the will or wish of the people.

But however sound the reasoning, however just the defense of a good man, it is but right that "The Examiner" should take into its confidence those whom it assumes to advise and tell them why and upon what evidence it determined to ask its readers to vote for Mr. Ryan.

WHEN THE SUPPORT OF MR. RYAN WAS CONTEMPLATED THERE WAS NOT A MAN ON THE EXECUTIVE STAFF OF "THE EXAMINER" WHO KNEW OR HAD PERSONALLY MET THE CANDIDATE. IT WAS NECESSARY THEREFORE THAT A CAREFUL INVESTIGATION SHOULD BE MADE INTO HIS LIFE, HIS ACHIEVEMENTS AND HIS CHARACTER, AND THROUGH A SEARCHING INVESTIGATION HE HAS COME CLEAN AND FINE, A SPLENDID TYPE OF THE MAN AMERICA PRODUCES, WHO WITHOUT BACKING AND WITHOUT OPPORTUNITY, WITH NO RICH FATHER TO MAINTAIN HIM, BACKS HIMSELF SUCCESSFULLY AND MAKES HIS OWN OPPORTUNITIES.

WE FOUND THAT HE WAS A CHILD OF THE PEOPLE. HIS FATHER, A TANNER, THEN A CARPENTER, THEN A LIVERYMAN, WAS LOVED AND RESPECTED BY SEVEN SONS AND DAUGHTERS, EVERY ONE OF WHOM WORKS FOR A LIVING. YOUNG DAN RYAN, WHEN HE REALLY WAS YOUNG DAN RYAN, WAS TRYING CASES IN A JUSTICES' COURT AT THE AGE OF 17 AND ARGUING MOTIONS IN THE SUPERIOR COURT AT 18. AT 21 HE WAS ADMITTED TO THE BAR AND BY STUDY, HONESTY, ABILITY AND A CONSCIENTIOUS DEVOTION TO HIS DUTIES HE HAS MAINTAINED HIMSELF AND BUILT UP A PRACTICE IT WILL COST HIM SOMETHING TO FORSAKE TO GIVE HIS ATTENTION TO THE CITY'S NEEDS.

Jurists of distinction, who weigh their words and speak with caution described him as an able lawyer and a man of "extraordinarily high character." He was free from alliances with the influences which work for ill in this community, and free to consider alone the welfare of the city.

Thus far Ryan looked good and the inquiry naturally turned to the causes of the opposition to him.

"He is too young," was the sole complaint of those who praise young Spreckels for the strenuousness of his youth, and pretend to think that sixty-nine is the proper age at which a man should take up the onerous burden of the rehabilitation of San Francisco.

There was a hollow sound to that cry. It did not ring genuine. It lacked good faith, even though it fell from the practiced lips of those who make much use of the phrase "good faith" when they have a bad faith purpose to serve.

We knew there were other causes, and we turned to the columns of the newspapers which have been in his political camp until recently to see what testimony they gave of the man whom they are opposing.

And behold there was a puzzling discovery. Every one had heralded him as a new Moses to lead us out of the wilderness.

The "Chronicle" which now compares him with P. H. Mc-

Carthy, had proclaimed that he would make "an admirable Mayor."

Impossible? Not at all.

The following is a reprint of an editorial which appeared in the "Chronicle" no longer ago than August 16th:

"There is but one objection to Daniel A. Ryan for Mayor, and that is that he has headed a movement whose motto was self-abnegation. The welfare of the city, and not of any citizen, is to be considered. To immediately follow the success at the primary with wire pulling for the nomination of the leader of the movement does not look well. And yet it is only evidence of the incapacity of our people to rise above personal politics."

"Mr. Ryan has no part in the movement to nominate him. His attitude is absolutely correct, and we do not doubt will remain so. It may become very desirable to nominate him, to which end his friends will be careful just how not to give a great movement the appearance of a personal campaign. He would make an admirable Mayor. So would others just now so much in the public eye."

"The 'Chronicle' has sometimes expressed the hope that Dr. Taylor might be nominated. That was merely because he is a man in all respects admirably qualified and who happens to be just now in the actual breach. We do not know that he desires to be nominated, although it is natural for one who gets interested in a work to wish to continue in it. We are sure that he does not wish to be nominated if there are sound public reasons for taking some other man. We think the same of Mr. Ryan, although we do rather imagine he would like to be Mayor. But a citizen who has conducted a great movement so worthily as Mr. Ryan has led the Republican League need not worry about his public future if he cares to have one."

"If we are correct in our impression of the character of the delegates to the Republican Convention, a majority of them are quite capable of thinking and in the habit of doing so. And we are convinced that under the leadership of Mr. Ryan they will act deliberately, suspending judgement until it is time to act, and then acting with an eye solely to the welfare of the city of San Francisco and not of that of any individual or any national political party. At this juncture the welfare of the city is paramount."

So according to the voluntary testimony of one of his strongest opponents, Mr. Ryan has "no part in the movement to nominate him." "His position was absolutely correct" and "he would make an admirable Mayor."

Again, as late as August 24th, the "Chronicle" said editorially:

"Even among those whose integrity and patriotism are unquestioned there is some danger of creating cleavages which ought not to exist. Take for instance, the question of the nominee for Mayor. Two men only are prominently mentioned, each fully worthy of representing a reclaimed San Francisco and each perfectly correct in his attitude with respect to the nomination. And yet it is evident that if their respective friends accept it there will be created a personal contest between them."

"The only thing to be avoided is to be. Evidently, except for good reasons to the contrary, Mayor Taylor should be continued in the work which he has begun. But there may be good reasons to the contrary of which none can be so good judges as the two gentlemen themselves and their confidential advisers. They should get together and stay together and work together determining among themselves which for the good of the cause ought to lead the cohorts of decency settle upon Taylor and Mr. Ryan are moral and most important factors in our municipal reformation and they are both men who, if permitted, will bury all thought of personal glory in a patriotic devotion to the welfare of San Francisco."

But the "Chronicle" went further. On September 10th it said:

"Thus far the only two men prominently spoken of for Mayor are Mayor Taylor and Mr. Ryan. They stand for the same ideals. Mayor Taylor did not seek office. Mr. Ryan did not seek it. No one questions the integrity of either or their independence, impartiality and efficiency. We believe both are equally patriotic and that each would heartily support the other if nominated."

The following day, in unequivocal terms, it declared its willingness to support Mr. Ryan.

Here are its own words:

"The 'Chronicle' does not say that it is best for San Francisco that Mr. Taylor should be nominated. We are ready to support any honest and capable non-political man of his class. We are ready to support Mr. Ryan if he should be nominated, or any other suitable man who is not known as a trading politician. There may be good reasons for not nominating Mr. Taylor. The 'Chronicle' is no more his champion than Mr. Ryan's. But the mere fact that he is a Democrat is no good reason. And in saying this the 'Chronicle' possibly knows that it reflects the sentiment of three-fourths of those who must be relied on to elect any decent man Mayor of San Francisco."

And on September 21st, less than a month ago, it proclaimed in black type three columns wide that Dr. Taylor had not "made good."

Here is its declaration:

"When Mayor Taylor was appointed with universal approbation, the 'Chronicle' said that the natural thing would be to renominate him if he made good. He has not altogether made good."

What has Mr. Ryan done to change the opinion of the "Chronicle?"

But more complete even than the flop of the "Chronicle" is the somersault of the "Call."

On August 14th, according to the "Call," there was great rejoicing because the leadership was in the "capable and clean hands of Daniel A. Ryan."

The following paragraph is from a "Call" editorial of that date:

"The 'Call' takes to itself credit for some share in the accomplishment of this good work. It was this paper that spoiled Herrin's infamous apportionment scheme by which he planned to fill the burned district with his dummies and thus control the municipal convention. It was this paper that began and carried on to the last moment a vigorous campaign in behalf of the decent element of the Republican party, whose leadership was in the capable and clean hands of Daniel A. Ryan. The 'Call' has no candidates. It wants only honest, capable and independent men. It made this winning fight because it wanted a clean government in San Francisco and because it wanted the graft prosecution carried out to the end."

Next day, August 15th, Ryan was not only capable and clean handed, but a clear-headed young leader, as is testified to by the following extracts from the "Call" editorial of that day:

"The most pregnant comment upon the victory of Ryanism over Herrinism in the Republican primary on Tuesday is furnished by Ryan himself. The clear-headed young leader of the strong element in the party that demands reform, who demands the vigorous continuance of the graft prosecution and demands the turning down and kicking out of Herrin and the other and smaller Southern Pacific agents, was talking yesterday of the victory and what it meant. 'The $600,000 Republicans who won the day for Ryan were not with him because he was Ryan, but because he was for the right—right men, right methods, right politics and right government.'"

What has Mr. Ryan done to change the opinion of the "Call?"

But more acrobatic than even its agile contemporaries is the "Bulletin," sometimes "boughten," sometimes, according to Mr. Phelan, only "leased." Probably no one should pay any attention to the political floundering of a sheet whose political platform is a bank book and whose political enthusiasm is kindled or quenched by a check.

Nevertheless, this is what the "Bulletin" said on August 14th:

"Dan Ryan's overwhelming victory over the Herrin organization is the best thing that has happened to the Republican party in many years. Mr. Ryan is a forceful, intelligent, eloquent man with ideals. Behind him stand the large body of thoughtful and public-spirited Republicans who seek nothing for themselves out of politics and whose single purpose in voting is to save San Francisco from the boodlers and to secure for the city an honorable, competent administration representing all classes of clean men."

What has Mr. Ryan FAILED to do that has changed the opinion of the "Bulletin?"

This excellent testimony to the capacity, the cleanliness, the strategy, the good citizenship of Mr. Ryan, led repeatedly back to the question which has been reiterated above.

What has Mr. Ryan done to change the opinions of these newspapers?—and the story came out, the story "The Examiner" told yesterday, that a clique of schemers not one of whom would dare to run for office himself, is seeking, behind the respectability of a retired poet, to get control of the city, and through him to appoint men like Casey for politics only or men like Biggy who have been driven from office in disgrace, or any other man, good or bad, so he be willing to surrender the power of the people intrusted to him into the hands of those who, like the Council of Ten in Venice, would deny the right of citizenship and compel obedience where it is sheer usurpation to assume to command.

AND RYAN WAS A MAN. HE REFUSED TO BE A PUPPET; HE WOULD NOT BOW TO RUDOLPH SPRECKELS' HE WOULD NOT AGREE THAT THE PHELAN AND THE OLDERS AND THE LIVERNASHES SHOULD RULE IF HE WERE MAYOR, FOR HE HAD PROMISED A DECENT GOVERNMENT, AND, BECAUSE HE WOULD NOT YIELD, THESE NEWSPAPERS AND THESE MEN HAVE SWALLOWED THEIR OWN WORDS, AND SHAMELESSLY TRY TO DECRY A MAN WHOSE ONLY SIN—SHOCKING IN THE EYES OF THE CLIQUE—IS INDEPENDENCE.

It is a pleasure to support a man strong enough and capable enough to defy defeat rather than surrender his manhood, and it is equally a pleasure to help him overcome the worthies whose favor can be won only by such a humiliating surrender.

MR. SPRECKELS, YOU PROMISED TO PROSECUTE CRIMINALS AND LET POLITICS ALONE. KEEP YOUR PROMISE. YOUR WORK OF PROSECUTION IS A NOBLE AND A WORTHY ONE, FOR WHICH EVERYONE BUT THE CRIMINALS WILL PRAISE YOU. THE COMMENDATION WHICH THE PEOPLE GAVE TO YOUR EFFORTS IN BEHALF OF THE PROSECUTION DID NOT MEAN THAT THEY WISHED YOU TO ASSUME THE DICTATORSHIP OF SAN FRANCISCO.

To the working men, we say again that your interests will be safe in Mr. Ryan's hands. He is one of you: he comes from your ranks and is an honor to his origin. Nor has he forgotten those among whom he was born and has lived for; if his professional relations are with the merchants his social life is and his hours of pleasure are spent among those of your own kind.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE LABOR PARTY WE WOULD ADD THAT MR. MCCARTHY IS ABSOLUTELY IMPOSSIBLE FOR MAYOR. NO MAN WITH THE GOOD OF THE CITY OR HIMSELF AT HEART SHOULD VOTE FOR HIM UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES. HE MUST BE ELIMINATED ABSOLUTELY AS A FACTOR IN THIS CAMPAIGN WITHOUT REGARD TO ANY PERSONAL ESTEEM IN WHICH HE MAY BE HELD BY HIS FRIENDS. FOR THE GREAT DOMINANT ISSUE BEFORE THE PEOPLE IS GRAFT OR ANTI-GRAFT AND HE STANDS UNDER THE BANNER OF GRAFT. THE MANY SPECIFIC REASONS WHY "THE EXAMINER" EMPHATICALLY URGES HOME THIS POINT WILL BE DEALT WITH IN A FUTURE EDITORIAL.

THOUSANDS CHEER RYAN AND PLEDGE SUPPORT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—When Daniel A. Ryan finished speaking at noon yesterday to a throng of workmen near the Pacific Mail dock there rose a mighty cheer of accord and an instant later on nearly every coat flashed a Ryan button. It was a remarkable spectacle, even under the inspiration of this magnetic young campaigner, but was rendered more surprising when simultaneously a score of men who had heard his talk removed the Taylor buttons they were wearing and substituted Ryan emblems.

In the evening Dan Ryan got going again, traversed a deal of ground and addressed three meetings in packed halls, the climax of a remarkable day's campaigning being reached when he stood before an audience in the Davis theater that not only filled every inch of space in the auditorium, but stretched away back into the street.

BONFIRE GREET'S HIM.

Shortly before 8 o'clock a start was made from Ryan's office at Bush and Fillmore streets. The automobile took the candidate and his party at a rapid rate out to South San Francisco, where a bonfire was blazing in the street outside the Masonic Opera House, at Fourteenth Street and Railroad avenue. Residents of the district said it was by far the finest meeting held there. Every seat was taken in the body of the hall and the galleries were packed. Several candidates were brought up to speak, but the cry was "Ryan! Ryan!" and when the mayoralty candidate rose to speak he was accorded heartiest welcome. Ryan has a musical voice and he speaks well. He talked good-humoredly but plainly to his hearers as he discussed the issues of the campaign and pointed out to them the direction of their duty. He had nothing but kind words to say of his opponents, though he permitted himself a little fun at the expense of the Taylor shouters when he told a story of a negro who, when overtaken by a terrible thunderstorm and frightened almost out of his wits, dropped upon his knees and prayed fervently for "more light and less noise."

"You belong where capital and labor can be brought together and stand side by side," was his advice to the voters before him.

DEEDS, NOT PARTY!

"Parties don't make a city. It takes more than mere partisanship to establish prosperity." Andrew D. Porter, local organizer of the Boilermakers' Union, spoke earnestly for Ryan. So, also, did Thomas F. Eagan, late chairman of the Union Labor Party County Convention, who last night entered upon a campaign for Ryan and went the round of his meetings.

From South San Francisco the run back to the city was made, the party halting at Sixth and Harrison, where a dense throng filled a new hall. Ryan met with a demonstration, and when he told of his childhood days spent in a house not many blocks away, an enthusiast in the audience swung his hat high as he shouted: "It was Ballinger's house!" "Ballinger's it was," acquiesced Ryan, and the good humor of the audience broke out in laughter and cheers. Ryan made a brief but earnest talk, and amid loud cheering and a rush for Ryan buttons he drove away to the last but most important meeting of the day.

VAST THROG EAGER.

It was nearly 10 o'clock before the Davis theater was reached, but only some who had failed to even reach its doors had left the scene. Ryan had to force his way through a cheering crowd on the sidewalk and enter the theater by the stage entrance. He made his appearance just as District Attorney Langdon was concluding a forceful argument for an indorsement of his administration and the continuance of the graft prosecution. Some few moments later Ryan stood at the footlights and received a perfect ovation.

The sight of that welcoming throng, all good nature and friendliness, cheered him more than anything that had gone before and he spoke at his very best. Speaking of Dr. Taylor he said:

DISCUSSES DR. TAYLOR. "I've no fault to find with him, for he is a learned and distinguished gentleman. But he's surrounded by a few and the few should not govern. When I say 'Yes,' it will be to the people and not to a coterie of millionaires and a few newspaper proprietors."

This was the sort of stuff his hearers liked and they cheered him heartily.

By and by Ryan said: "You have heard how Charles M. Schwab has stated that he will spend $1,000,000 in reconstructing the Union Iron Works. Did he say he'd invest that money only if Dr. Taylor should be elected? Oh, no; money has no sentiment. It is cold as the north pole. Given a safe, honorable administration in this city and money will flow in like water, for you cannot hold San Francisco back."

Cheer after cheer interrupted Ryan as he made his points, and at the close he was given three times three. The crowd got around his automobile and cheered him as he sped home.

STIRRING NOONTIME ADDRESSES.

Ryan's noonday visit to the vicinity of the Pacific Mail docks was the first visit paid to the locality by the Republican candidate for Mayor during his campaign, and when his automobile pulled up at the corner of Second and Berry streets a crowd of toilers from the wharves, freight sheds and lumber yards hard by stood waiting to receive him. Ryan was accompanied by his law partner, Hugh J. McLaughlin, his cousin, John Ryan, and F. H. Dam, who nominated him in the recent Republican municipal convention. Ryan had intended to speak from his machine, but when informed that a buggy had been specially provided to serve as a rostrum, he dismounted at once and, mounting the humbler vehicle, started upon a clear, manly, vigorous delineation of his position. He was briefly introduced to his hearers by John Maloney, a popular restaurant man of the district.

"I'm glad to have this chance of meeting you face to face and telling you who and what I am and why I am here," said Ryan. He went on to tell the crowd how thirty-four years ago he first saw the light in a little house on Gilbert street, not very far off, and how, born in the laboring class, he had worked and toiled to educate and elevate himself, till now he stood before the voters of San Francisco asking them to make him Mayor of the city. "I stand alone in this fight, resting upon my own merits," he said. "I've no millionaires behind me, for I've never bowed down before them."

POINTS OUT FALLACIES.

In dignified yet forceful fashion Ryan pulled to pieces the pretentious claims of his opponents in the race. He told of McCarthy's prediction of industrial strife for years to come in the event of the defeat of the Union Labor party ticket, and of Taylor's dismal foreboding that a Democratic-Good Government League defeat means industrial stagnation. Then Ryan said:

"You don't want either industrial strife or industrial stagnation. You can avoid both by taking neither Mr. McCarthy nor Dr. Taylor, but a third candidate with whom labor has no quarrel and of whom capital has no fear. And if you elect me, as I think you will, I'll be the Mayor of all the people, and not the tool of Fremont Older, Mike de Young, James D. Phelan or any other man." Here part of the crowd laughed and part cheered. Ryan went on to say: "An attempt has been made to scare you by talk of the necessity for restoring the credit of San Francisco. Why, its credit is good. The world over and always will be. The only reason for the present stringency in the money market is that the demand for money here today is greater than at any time in the world's history. Human enterprise is greater and it takes money to keep things going. But San Francisco depends on its bay waters, its ships, its surroundings. It can never be held back. It must go on."

Ryan made some humorous allusions to his treatment by certain newspapers of this city, contrasting their utterances of today with those of two months ago. "Then I was called a leader of the people," he said, "but today, according to these publications, I have ceased to be a young and vigorous leader. My halo has disappeared like a fog before the morning sun; my little wings have melted and fallen off. And all because I choose to accept the Republican nomination for Mayor, at the same time declining to obey the behests of Mr. Spreckels and Mr. Phelan."

WELCOMED BY TOILERS.

Before Ryan got through the street was blocked with wagons, buggies, vehicles of every description, and when he stepped down onto the sidewalk the crowd pressed forward and greeted him heartily. Then the buttons came out, and where there had been noticed Taylor buttons here and there, there were none now to be seen. The Ryan buttons went like hot cakes, and fully four-fifths of the throng sported them when Ryan moved away.

From all sides came offers of escort to neighboring lumber yards, wharves and places where men toil for a daily wage. Ryan cheerfully accepted them, and in the space of two hours saw many places and met many people. At Pope & Talbot's lumber yard he met none but friends, men who had known him since a child and who patted him on the back and bade him go ahead. He was ushered through the Pacific Mail dock, and the smile on his face when he came out bore witness to the heartiness of his reception there. The south end warehouse on Second street, the Southern Pacific warehouse on Townsend street, the H. S. Crocker factory on Brannan street were visited in turn, and at each Ryan found further evidence of the esteem in which he is held. The afternoon was well advanced when he turned his face homeward to rest him for the evening's work.

WORKS BOARD PRESIDENT COMES OUT IN FAVOR OF MAYOR TAYLOR'S CANDIDACY

Michael Casey Declares No Pledges Were Exact From Him When He Was Appointed to His Position by Present Head of San Francisco Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Michael Casey, president of the Board of Public Works, on advice of a doctor Taylor Union Labor meeting last night, held in the old Methodist Church, at Eighteenth and Tenth streets. The hall was crowded.

"I am pleased to be with you," said Casey, "because I see it has been used for other than political purposes. You need not be surprised if you should see me in the future, because Casey has talked in a Methodist church before. I am for Taylor for Mayor. I hesitate about entering into this campaign. Had I been alone I do not know that I would have said anything. But I understand that the issue is to be the teachers' strike of 1908, and if that is to be the issue, then I will be heard later on. If I go into it I'll tell the whole truth, no matter where the claps may fall. No pledges exacted. Casey then told his hearers that when Mayor Taylor appointed him to the Board of Works no pledges were exacted from him. Casey further said that it was not for labor union politics they could better their conditions. Mayor Taylor further said that he had never asked from Casey that he had any political boss.

"That was shown," said the doctor, "when I was asked to be a member of the board until their names were published in the newspapers." Hynes, the Public Administrator, sang a song about "Otto and His CHEERS FOR EVERY ONE. James Hynes, president of the Iron Trades Council, made an earnest speech for Dr. Taylor. District Attorney Langdon said that he was never against the rich nor the poor. Percy V. Long and Lawrence J. Dolan made a few remarks.

There were cheers for Taylor and cheers for McCarthy, but the crowd as a whole seemed to be unanimous for Taylor. The Democratic and Good Government League nominee for Sheriff, District Attorney Langdon said in part: "My faith in Democracy is deep. I believe it will endure. That confidence is guaranteed by an abiding belief that the majority of men are honorable in their private lives and devoted to their government. The sentiment of this community like that of a thousand other American cities is for law and justice and order and against crime."

CANDIDATE OF LABOR UNION PARTY IS LEADING SPEAKER AT FOUR MEETINGS

President David Starr Jordan of Stanford University Comes In for Adverse Criticism Regarding Alleged Statements in Connection With American and Asiatic Labor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—P. H. McCarthy, candidate of the Union Labor party, addressed four large meetings last night. The first was at the Labor Union, where a big crowd of workers listened to the candidate of the Labor party. McCarthy, president of the San Francisco Union Labor party, said that he was a candidate for Mayor. He said that he was a candidate for Mayor. He said that he was a candidate for Mayor.

For your own people who represent you. For remember, fellow citizens, that if you do not stand together, the time will come when you will hang separately. Labor enemies today are fighting as they did when they defeated Governor Waite of Colorado and elected the notorious Peabody, who by his outrageous conduct and business actions toward organized labor and the plain people made a commercial graveyard of the business centers of that State. Perfect union city and you will bring to the workingman and stockholders of San Francisco what Peabody through General Bull and the bullpen brought to the plain people of Colorado—hunger, starvation, privation and want. This mine owner, like the only parties benefited.

"Do not be deceived by the utterances, either published or otherwise, of those who are not with you. You can better believe in yourselves than in our out-riders. Hence keep the management of affairs in this city in your own hands through your representatives instead of in the hands of your enemies, and peace, happiness and prosperity will remain in our city." McCarthy also called attention to the statement made by Schwab that he will spend $1,000,000 in improving the Union Iron Works.

STRAWS SHOW WHICH WAY THE WIND IS BLOWING

A straw vote taken in Los Angeles showed Taylor a strong first. Edmond Godchaux, candidate for Recorder, says: "My sympathy is for those who need the most." A straw vote on the Tiburon ferry showed Taylor in the lead, Jim Williams second and Jim Cochrane a bad third. A straw vote on a 5 o'clock out-going Oakland boat resulted: Taylor, 87; Mott, 98. Taylor has a strong following in Oakland.

P. H. McCarthy is the favorite of the "Scavenger's" Union, which at a recent meeting indorsed his candidacy and the entire Union Labor ticket. The oudest puff of the campaign was caused by Jack Spreckels, the boy and M. Harrigan. The Lincoln-Roosevelt League in Sacramento is stronger for Taylor than the Clinton White Taylor gets stronger the further away he gets from San Francisco. Congressman Julius Kahn has written a ringing letter from Paris, saying that he will be on hand to run for office next year. Collector of the Port Frederick S. Stratton is actively working on behalf of Taylor for Mayor and trying to form the Federal brigade into a sort of Taylor Club. Collector Stratton lives and votes in Oakland. The Thirtieth District Union Labor Club will hold a rally tonight at Columbia Hall, Harriet and Harrison streets, which will be addressed by P. H. McCarthy and other nominees of the Union Labor ticket. John D. Nagle will preside. The San Bruno Avenue Improvement Club has made up a list of supervisors whom they believe to be corrupt. In the Mission district, believing that the

FIXES COST OF BAY SHORE IMPROVEMENT AT MILLIONS

Engineer Turns Estimates of City's Proposed Wharves Over to Councilmen For Their Consideration.

The following report upon the proposed wharf construction on the bay was submitted to the City Council by City Engineer Turner last night, and was referred to the Committee on wharves and water front for consideration.

"I submit herewith preliminary estimates of wharf construction on the western water front of this city, based upon existing maps and prices obtained from the State Board of Harbor Commissioners. A very considerable reduction in the usual practice of making the wharves parts merely a narrow approach—say forty feet wide instead of 200 feet, as called for by our regulations, and building full width only at the outer end where berth space is first needed.

BUILD AS NEEDED. "As necessity arose the wharf could be built out to its full width back toward the shore and a dredge channel extended shoreward also to correspond, all of which presumably is your intention, although not expressed in your resolution. As laid out by your resolution, the proposed wharf and wharves would not have depth about fifteen feet of depth of water at the outer end at low tide, gradually decreasing to less than nothing at the shoreward end. This will necessitate a large amount of dredging for the wharf and an approach to the channel; and as this cut will have access about square across the tidal current, considerable dredging may have to be done annually for the maintenance of the channel, however, is favorable, being protected from direction of the heaviest storms and having good hard bottom at moderate depths below low water. In both these respects being much superior to the San Francisco side.

$330,000 TO DREDGE. "To dredge a slip 200 feet wide to a depth of twenty-five feet below low water, and to dredge a fan-shaped approach to the wharf, would require the removal of 2,205,000 cubic yards, which at 20 cents a cubic yard would be about $330,000. The depth of twenty-five feet is that of a channel in the estuary west of the bay, but as the commerce of the port grows the depth will have to be increased to more than thirty feet.

"Before making expensive surveys and borings, I thought, after consulting with the mayor, we should submit these preliminary figures and ask more specific instructions from the Council as to the size and type of structures for which plans are to be drawn."

ESTIMATES MADE. The following are Engineer Turner's estimates: Two wooden wharves, one and a quarter miles, bulkhead and fill, dredging to 25 feet, creosoted piles $1,810,000

Same as above, but with steel bulkhead and concrete cylinders around pile 6,087,000 Concrete wall, bulkhead and dredging to 25 feet 6,721,000 Single wooden wharf, creosoted piles, no bulkhead and dredging as above 1,470,000 Single wharf, two miles long, cylinder pile protection, steel bulkhead and dredging as above 4,892,000 Concrete wharf (single) and dredging 5,339,000 Prices for concrete piles and reinforced concrete top were given by a gentleman conversant with European practice, but the price was but half the above and is not thought to be safe for local conditions.

ESTIMATES OF COST OF WHARVES. The wharves, one and a quarter miles long, 200 feet wide, average length of piles forty feet: Estimate No. 1—Ordinary construction, creosoted piles, lumber superstructure, 2,540,000 square feet at 54 cents per square foot, $1,371,600. Estimate No. 2—Protected piles, concrete cylinders around piles, steel caps, timber stringers and floor, 2,540,000 square feet at $2.16 per square foot, $5,486,400. Estimate No. 3—Protected piles and concrete floor, concrete cylinders around piles, reinforced concrete superstructure, 2,540,000 square feet at $2.40 per square foot, $6,096,000.

BASIS OF ESTIMATES. Basis: Estimate No. 1 is based on current prices for material and labor applied to a piece of work of this magnitude. Estimate No. 2 is based on the contract price for the Leonard-street wharf now under construction in San Francisco. Estimate No. 3 is based on estimate used by the Board of Harbor Commissioners at San Francisco.

Dredging, buildings or railroads, not included in above estimate, bulkhead, 7,700 feet at $7.35 per foot, $56,500. Pier two miles long by 230 feet wide, 2,300 square feet at same as estimate No. 1) 2,112,000 square feet at 51 cents, $1,087,120. 2) 2,112,000 square feet at $2.16, $4,561,920. 3) 2,112,000 square feet at $2.40, $5,068,800.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish form after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

Fuel Supply in Nevada.

If the report is to be relied upon that bituminous coal measures have been discovered within twenty miles of Goldfield, it will be of incalculable value to the new mining district in that section of Nevada. All of the ores extracted from the mineralized veins in Tonopah, Goldfield, Bullfrog and the other mining districts in Southern Nevada are smelting ores which are now compelled to pay tribute for long distance transportation to reach suitable reduction works. It is, consequently, only the higher grades of ore contained in the veins worked which will pay for extraction. The lower values of ore—those which would be workable at a profit, if there were ordinary means of reduction on the premises—must, owing to existing conditions, remain undisturbed in the vein or be discharged in the dumps to await more favorable opportunities for their utilization.

There was a time in the history of the Comstock when only the highest grade deposits in the vein could be counted upon as a source of profit. Wherever the diamond drill failed to disclose high values in the ground explored, no effort was made to extract the ore. It was allowed to remain in place as a reserve to be drawn upon whenever the cost of mining and reduction was lowered, as it was assumed it would be sooner or later. Since the lode was unwatered some years ago, because cheaper methods of mining and reduction had been discovered, these reserves have constituted the source of ore supply. In the Bodie district, the old dumps of the Bodie and Standard mines have been sources of profit for years through the application of the cheap cyanide process to them.

If the Southern Nevada coal measures prove productive, the problem of smelting on the spot will have been solved, and the wealth of the mining districts in that part of the State will be manifolded. Smelting cannot be done there unless a source of cheap suitable fuel can be obtained, for, until this alleged discovery of coal was made, the nearest source of fuel supply was Utah. The long haul for fuel from that source is too much of a handicap to local smelting. The other expedient has, therefore, been resorted to—the selection of the ore and the shipment of the higher grades, which will bear the cost of transportation to the localities where comparatively cheap fuel is obtainable for reduction. An inexhaustible supply of good coal in the neighborhood of the new mining camps of Southern Nevada will add immeasurably to the value of the mining properties in that section and increase the metallic output of the State proportionately. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the reported discovery of coal near Goldfield is genuine, for, if it is, the building of smelters will be the next industrial development in that quarter, unless, in the meantime, the reduction of ores by electricity is perfected which will make the use of coal and coke a secondary consideration as a competitive source of local fuel supply. Whenever electricity can be profitably employed for smelting, its transmission from the streams on both flanks of the Sierra to the Southern Nevada mining districts will be a simple and comparatively inexpensive matter and it will make no difference then whether coal exists in the State or not.

The enormous importance of cattle, sheep, poultry and hog raising in this country for the supply of meat products for human consumption is illustrated in the report issued by the Department of Agriculture, which represents that the total capital invested in the business and its supplemental industries of slaughtering and packing amounts to $10,625,000,000. This is said to be equal to five-sixths of the total capital invested in manufacturing in the United States in 1904. But one of the extraordinary features of the report is that while the per capita consumption by Americans of the meat and pork products has declined since 1840, seven-eighths of the present output is being consumed in this country. Another surprising fact brought out in the report is that the chief meat eaters of the world are Australians and New Zealanders when the per capita consumption is considered, and that the per capita consumption in the United States is one-third greater than in the United Kingdom whose people have been hitherto dubbed as a nation of beef eaters.

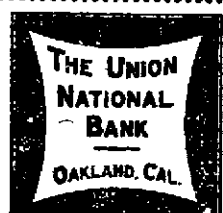

The mania for the high speeding of automobiles is increasing the number of victims at an alarming rate. Unless an effective curb is put on this form of insanity, it will be instrumental finally in driving off all public highways what under sane management is one of the most useful of road vehicles. Under the present crazy misuse of it, the automobile is now chargeable with more casualties than any other mechanical form of locomotion in use on the public highways. It is not improbable that the present year's record of automobiling in the United States, when it is compiled, will show a greater number of casualties than will be charged against all of the railroads in the country.

Time only will tell whether the $2,970,000 paid as the price of the holding of the second peace congress at The Hague was worth the money. One thing is certain: the delegates lived high, which is proved by the bill of $523,000 paid for 317 dinners, which represents an average cost of $1649 per dinner. It would be interesting to know how many sat at these functions in order to run down the calculation to the cost per plate.

AN ANGLER'S TRUE STORY.

I've often spun a fishin' yarn which has been swallowed down by any of the other chaps who loaf around the town. They all seemed to doubt my word, when I'm known ev'rywhere. In tellin' of the fish I've ketch'd, as bein' fair and square. Now I'll admit some tales I've told have seemed a little strong. An' folks have sometimes thought perhaps the weights an' measures were wrong. But I have got a story here that's absolutely true. An' I could prove it if I had the fish to show to you.

One day I went 'way up the creek to reach the other side. An' where I stopped to sit across wasn't more than eight feet wide. There wasn't no bridge or log in sight, but by an' hy I found a log w'at was from shore to shore, high 30 inches 'round. I took my pole to balance with an' stepped upon the thing. An' got about halfway across when something slipped by jing! The log went out from under me an' I went in the creek. As neat as anything alive an' forty times as quick. An' now the strangest part of all—that log got free. It jumped from out the creek a yard an' it throwed the mud an' spray. All over me, an' ev'rywhere, an' with a mighty sweep. It started like a lightning bolt down where the creek was deep. That log was just a pickeral who tried to turn around. An' as the creek wasn't wide enough he'd gone an' run around. Now, as I said, this yarn is true, an' I could prove it. An' only I had ketch'd that fish and brought it to you.

At Alta Vista, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Butters, the witches will make merry tonight, Halloween, being invoked for the pleasure of the daughters of the house. Miss Marie Butters, the namesake of Victor Metcalf, Jr., and Miss Margaret Butters, the affair is planned in celebration of the home-coming of Mrs. Butters and her daughters, who have just returned after more than a year's wandering in Europe.

All of the guests will come en masque, and the fun in prospect may be easily estimated by a glance over the guest list, which takes in all of the merry spirits in the local set. Decorations of the usual Halloween order will of course be a feature of the evening. The Butters home is ideal for entertainments of this character, and the event promises to be one of the most delightful affairs of the season.

Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. George McNear, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Clement, General and Mrs. Oscar Fitzallen Long, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brayton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Garceau, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lindsey, Mrs. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. R. Augustus Bray, Miss Ethel Harrison of San Francisco, Miss Bettie Angus of San Francisco, Miss Susie Nicholson, Miss Anna Peters, Miss Katherine Brown, Miss Katherine Katz, Miss Dolbe Tarney, Miss Laura Bransford, Misses Alta Henshaw and Florence Henshaw, Miss Gene Hawley, Miss Edna Prather, Miss Anita Thomson, Miss Ruth Houghton, Miss Mollie Mathes, Miss Helen Dornin, Miss Viva Nicholson, Miss Marietta Havens, Miss Chrissie Tart, Miss Daisy Perkins, Miss Alma Perkins, Miss Helen Mitchell, Miss Florence Hush, Charles Hubbard, Stuart Hawley, George Fuller of San Francisco, Will Sessions, Paul Edwards, George McLaughlin, George Walker, Alex and Joseph Rosborough, Ed Samuels, Du Val Moore, Valentine Hush, Ren Taylor, Alfred von der Damp, Carl Weger, Willard Barton, Ware Little, David Low, Russell Selfridge, Willard Young, Eugene de Coulon, Ferd Reis, Kelly Lasch and Leigh Anderson, Ed Jorney, Lieutenant Ferdie Anderson, Paymaster Edwin Nicholson of Mare Island, Paymaster James Kutz of Mare Island, Howard Smith, Shirley Houghton, Percy Gaskill, Douglas Waterman, Will Kimball, Harry Weihe and Leon Clark.

AT DINNER.
Senator and Mrs. G. Russell Lukens entertained at dinner last evening, at their home on Harrison street. The dinner was given for Dr. Rupert Blue and Dr. Racker, both of whom are army physicians, sent here by the government on official business.

A small party of friends, bidden to meet the guests of honor, completed the dinner group, among them Mrs. Hyde-Smith of San Francisco.

Mrs. Lukens is very popular in San Francisco circles, having made warm friends there both before and since her marriage.

Mrs. Hyde-Smith gave a tea for her recently, and Mrs. Eleanor Martin was another hostess who entertained in Mrs. Lukens' honor.

WHEELLOCK WHIST CLUB.
Mrs. Gordon Stolp is to entertain the Wheellock Whist Club on Friday of this week at her delightful home on Lake street.

The Wheellock Club is one of the oldest of the local club circles, and includes in its membership many of the interesting matrons of the local set, among them Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. James P. Neville, Mrs. Gordon Stolp, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Reni Chabot, Mrs. C. O. Brown, Mrs. Quincy A. Chase, Mrs. Maylan Fox, Mrs. Andrew Fine, Mrs. J. P. Meehan, Mrs. Henry Wadsworth, Mrs. A. F. Coffin, Mrs. G. W. Cook, Mrs. Thomas Crelin, Mrs. W. C. Edes, Mrs. David Eastbrook, Mrs. Melvin Chapman, Mrs. Samuel Hubbard, Mrs. E. T. Henshaw and Mrs. Charles G. Yule.

AN ENGAGEMENT.
Mrs. Annie Peyer announces the engagement of her daughter, Hazel, to Mr. Moses Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Barnett of Oakland. They will be pleased to see their friends on Sunday, November 24, from two to five, at 3101 California street, corner of Lyon, San Francisco.

CIVIC CLUB.
The members of the Civic Club held an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. S. C. Borland on Jones street, yesterday afternoon. Some very important topics were discussed, and one or two changes were made in the club arrangements.

It was decided that the club shall meet hereafter in executive council, using the homes of the different members as meeting places, and thus saving the expense of hall rent, so that the club may have more money to give to the various funds which are used in beautifying the parks and streets of the city. The club is interested in many movements, that make for the culture of beauty throughout Oakland, the purchasing of plants for the parks, the establishing of playgrounds, and now a new appeal which has come from the teachers of the Oakland High School for pictures to adorn its barren and uninspiring walls. The building is very large and there are many spaces that might be much improved by the introduction of suitable pictures.

Another object that is almost attained is the installation of the Ensign fountain for horses and dogs. The ladies of the club, looking for a site with Mayor Mott, City Engineer Turner and Mr. Ott, decided that a suitable location for the fountain would be the intersection of Twenty-sixth, Broadway and Webster streets. They have sent blue-prints, showing the relation of the site to the rest of the city, to the Rev. Mr. Conger of Pasadena, who is the coast agent for the Ensign estate. The fountain will be an ornament to the spot chosen, and in the location chosen it will do much toward fulfilling the humane influence that inspired the establishing of the fund. A great many of the Ensign fountains have been installed throughout the country.

Mrs. Alma Kowers was chosen as delegate to represent the club at the meeting of the State Federation on October 31st and November 1st. Mrs. E. H. Forrester was named as alternate. Mrs. Charles Morris, as president, will also represent the club in the federation.

The Civic Club now numbers eighty in membership. It will meet in executive council on the second Monday of each month.

MAKE LA JOLLA GREAT STATION

President Wheeler Says That Biological Laboratory Will be a World Model.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 22.—In an interview published today President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California, states that it is the intention of the Regents to make of the La Jolla biological station a model for the world. The city recently sold to the University a block of land of a normal figure and the station, already well endowed, will be made a center for scientific research of all kinds.

President Wheeler said: "No other point on the Pacific Coast affords such opportunity for research as does La Jolla, where, on account of the mild climate, it is possible for the marine and other scientific research work to be carried on throughout the entire year. Situated at such a vantage point that it controls naturally all of the Pacific Ocean between the Coast and the Hawaiian Islands, including a portion of the ocean rich in marine treasures and as yet undiscovered, La Jolla is destined to become one of the most important of scientific stations."

He fled to San Francisco, where he was apprehended and is now being held pending the arrival of an officer from the northern state.

—You may look into the piano with experienced eyes and try it with trained fingers, but what do these tests tell you but its present condition? You must rely on the reputation of the maker and the honor of the dealer. What name so universally honored and respected as that of Steinway? What name can offer you equal assurance of worth in the individual piano, and absolute protection against any form of loss?

Newest Fall Styles in Men's Footwear

If you believe correct footwear is worth while, you'll be interested in this "thoroughbred." It embodies all the style characteristics of this season—and it is a splendid example of expert shoe-building.

The snappy lines of the narrow sloping toe and the carefully shaped extension sole give the shoe unusual character. The button style is more popular than ever this season. But this is only one of the 43 new Regal models—each different and each equally desirable.

PLEASE TAFT

Secretary to Make Inspection of Subig Bay Region.

MANILA, Oct. 22.—Secretary Taft ended a day of hard work by the transaction of official business with an important conference with President Osmeña of the Philippine Assembly. They discussed the attitude of the Assembly, which the secretary said was satisfactory, expressing his satisfaction that its tendency is not radical. During the day the secretary attended a session of the Philippine Commissioners, the Governor-General being present, at which a hearing was given to representatives of railroad contractors, who are dissatisfied with the strict auditing of their accounts. Tomorrow night Secretary Taft will go to Subig Bay on an inspection tour, returning here on Thursday. The heat is intense.

LARGE FUNERAL FOR AGED PIONEER MASON

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 22.—The Masonic funeral of former Mayor F. M. C. Rainbow yesterday afternoon, was one of the largest ever seen in this city. Rainbow was a pioneer, having come to San Diego county in 1875. He was a supervisor and councilman for many years and was seventy-one years old.

WHEN HE GETS HOME.

"Hully mackerell!" exclaimed the freckled lad who was peering over the rail of the drawbridge. "Just look how yer brother Betsy can swim. Way, he can go like a canoe." "Yep," replied the other lad, solemnly, "and he reminds me of a canoe." "Cause he can glide so good?" "Naw, 'cause he is going to get paddled when he gets home."

TAKES LONG TIME.

Visitor—"And you have been feeding the dogs, Bobby? Gracious! All of them are wagging their tails with the exception of the dachshund!" Bobby—"Oh, he will wag his tail after a while. You see it takes a long time for his good humor to get from his head to his tail."

MANY WOUNDED IN UGLY BRAWL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Old fashioned carnage prevailed in Sanborn town Sunday when guns, stilettoes and other weapons were used. Miscellaneous in various brawls among the Spanish and Mexican residents, with the result that a total of seven were wounded, three of whom may die, and seven others now languish in jail charged with various degrees of assault.

The injured men are all suffering from knife wounds, injuries from clubs, fists and teeth. Joseph Redonas, stabbed in the abdomen; Miguel Perez, with scalp and abdominal wounds, from a stiletto; and Jose Acuna with a frontal bone, nose and jaw fractured with a club, and ribs severed with a stiletto will probably die. In the majority of the fights, women were the cause of the affrays, the men fighting to the finish because of jealousy. An old family feud was another cause. In one case a Mexican ran amuck and emptied his revolver into a crowd of his own countrymen.

PHELAN IS BACK TO FIGURE ON GETTING LABOR VOTES FOR LANGDON

District Attorney Gives Up Plan of Trying to Explain Away the Notorious Immunity Contracts and Abe Ruef's Freedom.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—District Attorney Langdon has decided that he must have a very large number of the labor vote to win and his friends and managers are at present concentrating their energies upon the unions. The struggle of Langdon to re-elect himself is a peculiar one. He is compelled to fight at the same time both his enemies and his friends and his political advisors find it extremely difficult to determine which most to fear. As soon as the District Attorney outlines a scheme of campaign his friends commit some fool blunder that throws all his plans into the air. As quickly as a new line of action is accepted the public pulse indicates another beat and chaos reigns once more.

When the campaign opened Langdon was advised that the only course necessary for his triumphant return to office was to explain the immunity contracts, which have been distributed as recklessly as press tickets to a prize fight, and to tell why Ruef hasn't been sent to San Quentin. The District Attorney discussed eloquently upon both of these topics and then some insistently curious voter wanted to know whom Langdon is going to support for Mayor.

The question was impertinent and highly uncomfortable. To one of the high ideals of the District Attorney it should have been easy to answer but when one is standing on two political platforms and would like to have a place on a third it would require the political agility of a tightropper to dodge queries so offensively personal. The District Attorney didn't dodge them. He tried a new tack. His advisors urged him to direct his denunciations to what they believe to be a deep rooted purpose of the unions. The District Attorney has taken the tip. He no longer explains or tries to excuse the immunity contracts. He has left Ruef to the tender mercies of the gumbore brigade. The burden of the talk of the prosecuting jurist is his high design to send Calhoun to the penitentiary.

PELTING CALHOUN.

In every speech Calhoun is pelted with invective. He is to suffer all the torments of convict humiliation. He is to languish in San Quentin for all the sins he ever committed and for some he never dreamed of even in Langdon's philosophy.

The managers of Langdon are convinced that their candidate must receive a very large percentage of the labor vote if defeat is to be averted. Many of the influences that are supporting Taylor are antagonistic to the District Attorney. The causes are self-evident and have been exploited often enough to need no repetition. In order to offset this deficiency Langdon must resort to the Laborite vote. In having recourse to this vote the decision has been to appeal to prejudice. The political directors of the District Attorney are convinced that the Laborites would rather accomplish the conviction of Calhoun than win the election of their entire ticket. Acting upon this analysis of the situation Langdon has been directed to promise the conviction of Calhoun above every other purpose of the graft prosecution.

This policy may affect some labor votes but it has accomplished very much more. It has opened the eyes of men who try to see to the fact that the graft prosecution, dominated by Spreckels and Phelan, has the criminal machinery of the local government well in hand.

BELL AND LANGDON.

In all the violent readjustment of political conditions and alignments which has taken place in this election there are a few Democrats left. There are not many but they are enough to make a noticeable howl. The few that are left want to punish Langdon for his treachery to Theodore B. Bell in the last gubernatorial campaign.

Inspired by revenge the small but unterrified band suggested that the town be placarded with signs which would read something like this: "Who Killed Bell?" "I did," said Langdon. The Democratic machine suppressed the suggestion with the remark that Spreckels, Phelan, Biggy, women's auxiliaries and the old ladies of the Good Government League, the fusion ticket, was loaded with enough to satisfy even the most pessimistic.

PHELAN IS BACK.

Phelan has returned to town, but the fact is being maintained as a profound secret for fear that somebody may try to raise the price on riot clubs. It is understood that his short vacation in the southern part of the State was taken to avoid the importunities of the job chasers who are advised that it is to dictate the administrative end of the hoped for Taylor regime. The ex-mayor has some very emphatic opinions in reference to the government of the city and he will be slow to distribute the price of office if victory is won. It is certain that dictate of policy will prompt him to give the Laborites a representation on the various boards. It is definitely announced that Mr. Phelan will not speak during the campaign in support of the cause of a candidate of Dr. Taylor. While the venerable medical lawyer intends to say little he intends that Mr. Phelan shall say less.

TO BUY INDIAN GRAVE YARD FOR PLAYGROUND

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—Thoroughly aroused to the necessity of acting at once in reference to securing playgrounds for Berkeley, the Trustees decided last evening to purchase outright the hundred-acre picnic ground lying north of town known as the old Indian burying grounds.

The plan was suggested to the Trustees by the Peralta Park Improvement Club and so well pleased were the Trustees with the idea that they decided at once to act in accordance with the suggestion. Mayor Ferrier appointed a committee composed of Trustees Schach, Gompertz and Schmitz and they were instructed to confer with Frank M. Smith and P. C. Havens, who own the property, in regard to the purchase of it. In speaking of the matter this morning Mayor Ferrier stated that the committee had taken hold of the case and would negotiate immediately with the owners of the land.

"These men have been holding this property for considerable time," said he, "and they will use it and the price will be made right."

If the town secures this property and converts it into a park and playground it will make the extension of a Grand boulevard car line almost imperative. The ground was used in prehistoric times as a burial place and many relics have been found there.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?

From a position of prominence and respectability, a high-salaried and confidential employee of one of the largest manufacturing institutions in the United States, to become an outcast of society and a beggar on the streets of New York, in the short space of three years, is a sad story recently told in the newspapers. You know the cause. You know the drink and drink only, could effect such a terrible transformation in so short a time. As an intelligent reader you also know that the young man referred to did not deliberately choose to become a drunkard, but that the craving for alcoholic liquor overcame his reason, destroyed his power of resistance and rendered him a veritable slave. How about yourself reader? Has this awful, insidious monster of intemperance fastened its deadly grip upon you? If it has, you know the inevitable and you can not overcome it unless you can get away, and only one way, by which you can again become master of yourself. Do not be discouraged because your own efforts have ended in failure. The double chloride of gold remedy of Dr. Leslie B. Kesley will cure you—no—stay cured. It is a national, painless, pleasant treatment by which over 300,000 sufferers from the disease of intemperance have been restored to lives of usefulness and respectability. Write to the Kesley Institute, 2030 Sacramento Street, San Francisco, for full information regarding this treatment, and do it today—now. It may be your only way of escape from a dishonored death and a drunkard's grave.

FLAMES OF EXPLODING GAS ENGULF VICTIM

FIGHTS FIRE IN HOME IN SPITE OF INJURIES

Throws Off Blazing Garments and Then Battles Flames, Which Were Attacking Shattered Woodwork.

A. C. Sellers, an employee of the Oakland laundry, was badly burned in an explosion of illuminating gas at his home, 1220 West street, this morning. Sellers was at work in the laundry when a neighbor called him up on the telephone and informed him that he had detected the odor of escaping gas in front of Sellers' residence. The laundryman boarded a car and went out to the house. As soon as he opened the door he smelled the gas and traced it to a room in the rear.

As he entered the room he lit a match. Instantly there was a terrific explosion and the man was hurled back into the hall with his clothing ablaze. He managed to rid himself of his burning garments after suffering severe burns about the arms and face and went back into the room where the woodwork had ignited. Unaided he succeeded in putting out the fire and then proceeded to a nearby pharmacy where he had his burns dressed.

The woodwork and papering of the room where the explosion occurred were badly damaged but the fire did not extend to any other part of the house.

Boys Sail Bay as Buccaneers Bold

BERKELEY Oct. 22.—Thomas Palermo, whose son Victor ran away from home Sunday taking with him $2000 of his father's earnings reported to the police this morning that he has received information to the effect that his son had sailed from West Berkeley in a small boat with a boy companion who is supposed to be the boy's chum Paul Oliver. Their destination is thought to be San Jose. They had with them a red chest containing carpenter tools. The evidently are intending to become buccaners, said the father.

FAIR COMPANION TAKES HIS BAGGAGE TO PANAMA

Primo Massera, a recent arrival from Italy, advised the police this morning to aid him in recovering his baggage which he declares he entrusted to the care of Marie Correll, a fascinating Senegalese whom he met on the voyage across the Atlantic.

When the couple reached New York Massera gallantly carried his fire companion's baggage which was much heavier than his own while she trundled the lighter baggage. In the confusion at the New York docks the valises were wrongly checked. Miss Correll's large one containing her trunk and trunk and trunk, small bag belonging to Massera went to Panama, whither Miss Correll went to Panama.

ADVERTISING A CITY

Address by Samuel P. Johnston Before the Oakland Ad Club at Hotel Metropole, October 22nd, 1907.

SAMUEL P. JOHNSTON.

For the purpose of discussion let us suppose the city of Oakland were about to advertise and her citizens had raised a fund of fifty thousand dollars to pay the bill—what would be the next step? Too often the next step is to spend all the money on hand for a booklet and none for creating a demand for it. Too often the business is killed off by an overabundance of committees and chairmen.

Let us suppose Oakland were about to spend $5000 in advertising. How should she do it? In the first place the management should be in few hands—not over three—one would be preferable. Then select an advertising man or woman with knowledge and experience and tending to carry out the plans as agreed upon.

The business from start to finish should be conducted just as a large corporation would do it. It is about to market its product by advertising. He must consider in what territory to advertise what class of people it is to be reached what media will reach them to the best advantage through which source the demand is to be supplied and similar questions of vital importance.

is for shipping and the developing of commerce in the Orient.

China is in many respects like a newly discovered continent. Her soil has been tilled until it is worn out and that necessitates the purchase of ever increasing quantities of food stuffs—the very things California has to sell.

Intercourse with foreign nations, turning millions learn the taste of other things to eat and for other things to wear and use. The demand for foreign manufactured articles is increasing tremendously. Time is an element in delivery and the manufacturer who can ship from the nearest port will get the trade.

Factories will be established in the bay of San Francisco just as surely as the oil supply has been found to create the power and demand for the articles established.

Where shall these factories be? What has Oakland to offer? Has she water front enough to handle the shipping of her cargoes? Has she wharves? Has she railroads? Has she raw material? Has she climate? May the operatives in the factories work every day in the year without discomfort from heat or cold?

And all this is only one of many subjects which could be profitably exploited in advertising Oakland.

A few wide awake cities have advertised along sane and proven lines and have succeeded. Other have labored hard to raise a few hundred dollars and blew it in (on a write up in some so called magazine of unknown circulation and ended by declaring that advertising didn't pay. Their approach was a sufficient sum and then advertise to the folks it wants to reach through the mediums most likely to be read by them. It has a follow up system to keep in touch with those who make inquiries and never lets up.

The plan of campaign is all important next to raising the money. If Oakland has a population of 250,000 and one person in each hundred became interested in her proposal to promote the welfare of her city by advertising and joined a half million club agreeing to pay dues of five dollars a month for a year you have an advertising fund of $10,000,000.

BANK'S LAWYER NOW NOT SO EAGER TO HURRY SUIT AGAINST THE TRIBUNE

Wheeler Wants Adjournment, but Defendant Refuses to Consent—Testimony Proves the Paper's Vast Circulation.

At the resumption yesterday afternoon of the taking of the deposition of Mr. W. E. Dargie, president of the TRIBUNE PUBLISHING COMPANY, in the suit brought against that corporation by the First National Bank of San Francisco, the defendant was represented by Attorney M. G. Chapman and George W. Reed. Attorney Chas. S. Wheeler represented the plaintiff. Here is the testimony in full.

Mr. Wheeler—At the last hearing Mr. Dargie we were discussing the question of the circulation of your paper and you made a statement that you would produce a list of the cities—

A (interrupting)—Yes sir there is a list of cities which you wished introduce in evidence. You can just hand it over to the stenographer.

Q—Is the statement that you just handed to me a true statement of the cities and towns in middle California in which THE TRIBUNE is circulated by carrier? A—It is.

Q—By middle California, what do you mean Mr. Dargie? Of course I know what I would mean.

SHOWS BIG CIRCULATION

A—All the way from Northern California to Southern California from here to Los Angeles. Let me see that list. This goes as far south as Gilroy and as far north as Red Bluff.

Q—This does not then include a list of towns in which your paper is circulated north of Red Bluff or south of Gilroy? A—The list speaks for itself. I haven't gone over it carefully.

Q—In other words, what is here meant in the statement you have just—by the way this is published in your paper? A—Yes sir.

Q—And what is here meant by middle California is that portion of California lying between the southernmost city indicated in this list and the northernmost? A—Yes sir.

Q—In these cities and towns, then the paper is circulated by carrier, is it not? A—Yes sir.

Q—In the cities and towns north of Red Bluff your paper also circulates does it not? A—It does.

Q—But not by carrier? A—I think not.

Q—And in cities south of Gilroy in the State of California, your paper also circulates does it not? A—It circulates in Monterey.

Q—And Los Angeles? A—I don't think in Los Angeles by carrier but by mail and on new stands.

OFFERED IN EVIDENCE

Mr. Wheeler—We offer this document in evidence and ask that it be marked our Exhibit A.

Mr. Chapman—We object to it as immaterial.

Mr. Wheeler—And I ask that it be considered read.

Mr. Chapman—Yes.

Mr. Wheeler—Now, with regard to the country north of California and Oregon. Does your paper circulate through the State of Oregon or through any of the cities or towns of Oregon in any manner? A—To a small extent.

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial and I ask that the answer go out.

Mr. Wheeler—Q—To what extent, Mr. Dargie? A—To a small extent.

Q—What do you mean by small extent with reference to the number of copies sent, for instance to Portland Oregon?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as cross-examination.

A—If you will make me a list of the particular towns that you want me to give a statement of I will procure the list.

At the resumption yesterday afternoon of the taking of the deposition of Mr. W. E. Dargie, president of the TRIBUNE PUBLISHING COMPANY, in the suit brought against that corporation by the First National Bank of San Francisco, the defendant was represented by Attorney M. G. Chapman and George W. Reed. Attorney Chas. S. Wheeler represented the plaintiff. Here is the testimony in full.

Mr. Wheeler—Q—Would it be convenient to make out such a list with reference to the States and territories of the Union? A—It would take some time.

Q—Could you have a list compiled without inflicting too much labor upon you or your staff? A—If it would please you we would do it.

Q—I will ask you if your paper is in circulation in the State of Washington? A—I think very small.

Q—Some copies of your paper are sent either by mail or to the news stands of Seattle are they not? A—I think so.

Q—Also in Tacoma? A—I think very likely.

Q—And the same is true of Portland Oregon? A—I think so.

IN ALL LARGE CITIES

Q—And all of the larger cities of Washington and Oregon? A—I think so.

Q—And is the same true with regard to the territory the leading cities of Arizona—that you have subscribers either by mail or that copies are sent?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I think some copies go to Arizona.

Mr. Wheeler—Q—And with reference to the States and territories east of California and Nevada Oregon Washington and the territory of Arizona do copies of your paper circulate there to any extent at all?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I couldn't tell you just where, but it has a general circulation.

Mr. Wheeler—Q—Is there a State in the Union to your knowledge where you haven't one or more subscribers?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as leading and suggestive and immaterial.

A—I don't know.

Mr. Wheeler—Q—You don't know of any State where you have no subscribers? A—I don't know whether we have or not in all of the States. I haven't gone over the list in detail.

Q—With reference to the stock ledger stock journal and stock certificate book of the defendant corporation what search have you made? A—I haven't made any search.

Q—So you are not able to give a list of stockholders any more fully than at the last hearing? A—Not any more than at the last hearing. When I get a little more time I will make a diligent search and see if I can locate that book.

HAS NOTHING TO HIDE

Mr. Wheeler—We have reached a stage in the examination where I would like with the consent of witness and opposing counsel to make that personal examination of certain assets that he was telling me we might make.

The Witness—Do you want to go down now?

Mr. Wheeler—Yes. At the same time if it is convenient I would like for you to complete your search for the stock certificate book, journal and ledger.

Mr. Chapman—Mr. Wheeler, if it is a fair question have you concluded your direct examination upon every other subject matter? If you have not I would suggest that the matter of the examination of these books be reserved and that we go on with the deposition then when we leave here we can go down and make the examination.

Mr. Wheeler—Frankly answering you so far as I can recall from memory I have completed the direct examination with the exception of these matters and such matters as are to be certified to the court but I have this reservation. That upon going over the transcript which I haven't been able to do I may possibly see some other questions that I haven't been able to ask. Let me be understood.

by all of you gentlemen that I would consider any examination that was made by me to the extent that I am permitted to make it, would be entirely a matter of my own individuality, and for the purpose of reaching such conclusions as I personally shall think my client's interest will demand in further questions.

ASKS FOR ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. Chapman—That is satisfactory Mr. Wheeler.

The Witness—I am perfectly satisfied. Mr. Wheeler—I would not consider any continuance from your side before Mr. Dargie went east but it was refused.

He came back here and gave his testimony as we claim voluntarily in the first instance and while that matter was pending it was attempted to impeach him for contempt. Your side of the case was in a great hurry at that time and we find ourselves in the same situation now. Mr. Reed and myself have put off cases and adjusted our business to the taking of this deposition and we cannot consent to a continuance at this time. We insist that it be passed until tomorrow.

After further argument the matter was continued to be taken up before Judge Owen Tuesday at 2 p. m.

AUTOIST STOPS RUNAWAY FROM SEAT OF HIS CAR

SAYES WOMAN FROM DEATH BY ACT OF UNUSUAL HEROISM

GRASPS BRIDLE OF RUNNING HORSE AND RETAINS HIS HOLD

BERKELEY Oct. 22.—Stopping a runaway with an automobile thereby saving the life of a woman was the feat accomplished by Richard Lloyd on Telegraph avenue last evening. Lloyd was driving his auto along the avenue when near Alcatraz he saw a buggy dash into the street with a woman occupant. She was pulling frantically at the reins but to no avail. Shouting to the woman to keep her seat Lloyd ran his machine alongside the runaway and the passengers in the tonneau endeavored to catch the reins of the fleeing horse but it was not until the runaway reached Channing way that Lloyd was able to make another attempt to stop the horse.

CATCHES BRIDLE

This time he saw that the attempts of the passengers in the rear were of no avail so he leaped for out one hand on the steering wheel and the other extended to catch the horse. He finally succeeded in bringing the animal to a stop and lifted the fainting woman from the seat.

When revived the woman had the horse tied to a post and left the automobile party without disclosing her identity. She was profuse in her thanks to Lloyd and declared that she had been saved from death by his heroic action.

PARE FEAT

The feat of the chauffeur is one seldom as accomplished. While he bent over the side of the machine to grab the reins he was coiled to keep the wheel in position and when he did catch the reins he had to apply the brakes to bring the machine to a stop.

In the automobile party of four were R. E. Wells, Oakland manager of Kohler & Chase Company and his wife W. J. Wells, a wife of J. J. Johnson and W. J. Johnson, Johnson and Robinson made some attempts to stop the tonneau to grab the reins but were unsuccessful.

With pistols still pointed they backed out of the saloon and made their escape up San Pablo avenue. Thus far the police have not succeeded in locating the robbers.

REA ORDINANCE FOR SALT WATER PLANT

An ordinance providing for the construction of the proposed new salt water pumping plant to be installed on Lake Merritt and authorizing the appropriation of $10,000 to cover the cost of erection was given its first reading before the City Council last night and was referred to the Committee on Public Improvements for consideration.

SAYS WIFE KEPT CHILDREN AWAY

Talbot Shows Signs of Breakdown While Testifying.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The direct examination of William H. Talbot, the millionaire lumber dealer, who is suing his wife for divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, closed at 11:30 this

Talbot visibly quailed when Attorney Rowe said "Take the witness" at the conclusion of the direct examination. He evidently does not relish the fire of questions which will be put to him by the

During the entire session today Mrs. Talbot sat beside her attorney. She gave numerous signs of nervousness, and her mouth frequently twitched while her husband was telling of his being deprived of the company of his children. She whispered continually to Attorney Barrett and he in turn fired objections to almost every question put to the plaintiff.

TALBOT WEAKENS.

Talbot again gave signs of a breakdown when he told of how he called his wife up on the 'phone to get permission to take the children to the theater and how his wife said she did not consider him a proper person to take them out and that she would not let them go.

The first matter taken up in the divorce proceedings of William H. Talbot this morning was the reading of the sumplementary complaint, which alleges further acts of cruelty on the part of the defendant, particularly in depriving him of the society of his children.

Attorney Barrett objected to the introduction of the amended complaint on the ground that the facts stated in it occurred at a reasonably long time from the attempt to file the complaint. A general demurrer was then entered by the defendant to the complaint on the ground that the evidence was incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

evant and immaterial. In addition to the demurrer counsel also made an additional motion to strike out the facts contained in the supplementary complaint.

ASKED FOR CHILDREN.
Follow up the reading of the complaint, Talbot was placed on the stand and asked if when he was ill in August, 1907, he was allowed to see his children. He stated that he called the two boys and Vera into his room and asked them if they did not want to stay with their parents while he was sick. He stated that

The attorneys for the plaintiff made a determined effort at this point to get Talbot to tell why his wife is alleged to have forbidden a Japanese boy to stay in his room with him all night after the

In reply to further questions, Taibot said that he saw the children at breakfast for a short time and again at night before they went to bed, but never for any length of time. He stated that he often requested the boys to come down and chat with him in the evening and they said they could not come down. The court would not allow the plaintiff to state the reason given by the children for their refusal to come down, but it was brought out later that their mother refused to permit them to chat

COULDN'T SEE SON.
Talbot told further how in May of this year, when his son Eric was taken ill at Santa Clara college, and removed to his home, he was often forbidden to see him being admitted only once or twice during the boy's illness. He said that on several occasions when he asked to he allowed to see Eric his wife refused to admit him. Sometimes she spoke to him herself and told him he could not see the boy, she said. Again she would tell his daughter Vera to tell him, and on one occasion he got no response to his knocking when he wanted to hear how the boy's condition was. The plain-diff further testified that he did not know that Mrs. Talbot and the children were going away this summer until he saw the trunks packed and when he asked the children where they were going they stated they did not know. It later developed, according to the witness, that they went to Lake Tahoe, and although Abbott was he wrote to the chil-

The witness further testified that when the circus came to town he asked the children to go with him, and that too

The plaintiff stated that on September 24 he called the defendant on the phone and told her he wished to take her to the theater some night.

"She replied," said the witness, "that she would not let the children out with improper persons and that I was an improper person and they should not go with me. I then asked if I could take them out on Sunday but Mrs. Tai-

Further testimony revealed the fact that on one occasion when he went upstairs to see why his children had not been down, his wife ordered them to bed, one by one, and he was forced to do without their company. It was also noted that when he was in August

REPEAL ANTI-CIGARETTE LAW OF 12 YEARS' STANDING

ALAMEDA, Oct. 22.—The anti-cigarette law, which was enacted twelve years ago and prevented the sale of prepared cigarettes during that time, was repealed at the meeting of the Council last night. The resolution was introduced by Councilman Fisher and the only Councilman who opposed the repeal of the law was Councilman Geo. C. Cunningham and Noy and Brown were absent.

The ordinance was passed twelve years ago through the effort of Mrs. Stanley Stevenson, wife of a Councilman, who claimed that her son had been ruined by smoking cigarettes. The weakness of the ordinance was due to the fact that papers and tobacco for cigarette making could be sold while prepared cigarettes were under the ban. Numerous arrests and convictions were effected during the time the law was in force.

HIGH BILLBOARD FRANCHISE.

Councilman Bullock suggested an ordinance regulating the erection and maintenance of billboards. It was his idea that a tax of 5 cents a square foot each quarter would effectively do away with the signs. The rate in Oakland is lower by half. There was no action taken but at the next meeting City Attorney Simpson will have an ordinance ready for passage.

The ordinance providing for the sale of the bonds voted at the election last of Bullock, chairman of the finance committee, stated that already fifty firms had written for full information about the bonds, and that they should bring a good premium.

The Hazzam Pavement Company was instructed to place a heavier roadbed on certain portions of the Webster street roadway under the supervision of the Street Superintendent. The money for the improvement will come from the Pacific Investment Company.

TO OPEN STREET.

The resolution providing for the improvement of High street was recalled and no action will be taken until next year. Mayor Taylor and Councilman Magagnoli announced that Mrs. A. A. Cohen was satisfied to have Clement avenue cut through her land, which to this time has been without streets.

The necessity of making a temporary road on the east side of Webster street was discussed and Superintendent Frodden is to see that the remains possible during the time the west side is being improved.

M'KINLEY AND MOSES TELL OF EDUCATIONAL THE WORK IN PHILIPPINES

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—Congressman Duncan McKinley and Professor Bernard Moses were the speakers last evening at a social evening given by the Ladies Club. Congressman McKinley took for his theme the work the United States has been accomplishing in the Philippine Islands. He said in part:

"We must treat the Filipinos on terms of equality. Show them that we are solicitous for their welfare, from a moral, physical and educational standpoint, and instead of regarding us with hatred they will respect us as their strongest allies."

FOUND LOW CIVILIZATION.

"President McKinley, in his desire to attend the wants of the native Filipinos and introduce to them the broad policy of American expansion could not have selected a better one to follow out his theory than William H. Taft, then judge of the Circuit Court in the State of Ohio. He commissioned Judge Taft to go to the islands as one of a party, of which Professor Schurman, now head of Cornell University, was a prominent member. The party conducted investigations, noting especially the evils existing under the old Spanish regime. They noted that the language admitted of so many dialects that one faction was unable to understand another. They noticed that the civilization as introduced by Spanish rulers, was little better than their primal barbarity, and the uncivilized conditions throughout the islands were a hindrance to the progress of the earliest times."

NOT ENGLAND'S POLICY.

"After spending considerable time there and studying conditions very carefully, we returned to America much the wiser, and resolved to construct policies that would be of real benefit to the natives of the islands. We resolved that we should not use these islands for the enrichment of our exchequer alone, but for the uplifting of its peoples. England's policy in India we resolved not to follow, as it was simply the subjecting of intelligent people to servitude for the private ends of the invaders. We knew the Filipinos were entirely adaptable to civilized methods, and to install these methods among them, we resolved to gain their esteem by treating them as desirable subjects."

Professor Moses spoke very interestingly on the results accomplished by the commission along educational lines, he having also been one of the party that went to the islands with Judge Taft.

BROKERS ANXIOUS
In brokers' offices in London quotations on American shares were anxiously awaited. When received they showed a sharp decline from yesterday's New York prices. At 1 p. m. in London American stocks showed the following declines:
Amalgamated copper 1 1/4. Atchafson 3 1/4. Baltimore & Ohio 1 1/4. St. Paul 2 1/4. Southern Pacific 3 1/4. Union Pacific 3 1/4. United States Steel 1 1/4.
At about 11:30 the firm tone in the market disappeared under renewed heavy selling. Union Pacific broke to 112 1/4, a decline of 4 1/4. Reading fell to 80 1/4, a loss of 3 1/4. While St. Paul sold at 109, a decline of 1 1/4, from last night. Northern Pacific sold at 112 1/4, a decline of 1 1/4 from last night.

SALT LAKE SATISFIED
SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 22.—Barristers here say the financial condition in this city has not been as good. All the banks hold large reserves and none of them is apprehensive as to the outlook. The volume of business here shows a large increase over last year and the amount of money in circulation is shown by Clearing House reports is considerably larger than at this time last year.

WASHINGTON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—While it is believed that some action is being taken by the Treasury Department in the matter of making deposits of government funds to make up for the loss of the present emergency in New York, Secretary Cortelyou refused to discuss the subject in any way. Mr. Cortelyou said that not only would he not make any statement at this time but would not discuss with anyone the matter of deposits.

It is understood that Secretary Cortelyou has ordered $7,000,000 distributed among the leading national banks of New York.

LONDON AFFECTED
LONDON, Oct. 22.—The cable dispatches from New York regarding changes in the management of the Knickerbocker Trust Company and the receipt of heavy selling orders from New York caused marked uneasiness on the stock exchange today. American stocks which opened strong following Wall Street quotations of yesterday fell heavily on wild reports in connection with the financial situation in New York and liquidation by American houses in London caused a further decline in prices of favorite American railroads of from three to four points. The lower part of the market at noon was exceedingly weak.

PORTLAND SOUND
PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 22.—Edwin L. Thompson secretary of the Portland Clearing House Association made the following statement to the Associated Press regarding banking conditions in Portland.

The financial situation in Portland is remarkably good. The banks of Portland have more money on hand than at any time in their history. There is scarcely a bank in the territory that is not prepared for any emergency.

NO WORRY HERE
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—W. H. Hillman president of the Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank and of the Union Trust Company discussing the financial situation in San Francisco said:

There is abundant capital here in the commercial banks for legitimate purposes and we are accommodating our regular clients as though nothing had happened making the usual advances for the moving and forwarding of crops and food stuffs of which large shipments are in motion now. I don't think anything is to be feared on account of any of the San Francisco commercial savings and trust banks. They are in the hands of conservative bankers not speculators and all are doing legitimate banking business in the various branches. My own banks are not interested in Eastern stocks.

Mr. Hillman did not look upon the strained situation in New York as foreboding a general banking depression throughout the country and he thought that least of all would the West be affected in industrial slackening in the East and middle West might perhaps be anticipated but not as a result of Wall Street troubles. It was his judgment that the majority of the San Francisco banks are not involved in business with the speculative banks of New York.

The Western country banks, he said, are creditors of the New York banks and when they make calls on them it is for their own money. That is a truth I have repeated fifty times to the New York bankers but they fail to recognize it.

Mr. Hillman in a discussion of commercial conditions within San Francisco on account of a bank conservatism in the matter of capital was available for legitimate commercial purposes. It was not surprising however to see the rapid pace of building operations temporarily slackened.

Building in the sphere of property, one of the main elements in the city's life, is not in the sphere of savings banks and no one would deny that the vast majority of the city's money is in the hands of the savings banks. But generally there is no investment. But generally there is no investment. But generally there is no investment.

VANCOUVER RUGBY FIFTEEN WILL MEET VARSITY FIFTEEN Thomas-Ketchel-Gleason-Greggains Tangle to Be Settled Today-Davenport Wants Thomas.

(By EDDIE SMITH.) The fast Rugby teams of Vancouver have arrived and are making themselves at home in Berkeley, where they will have a chance to try the grounds out before the game which is to be played tomorrow afternoon against the Varsity fifteen. The fifteen men who will represent British Columbia in the game have been picked from the various teams playing in and around Vancouver and while the visitors have not the advantage of playing together long enough to perfect their team work they will no doubt prove the toughest proposition that Berkeley has yet tackled.

The game is much older in the north, where it is looked upon as a native sport and consequently the individual members of the visiting team have had a better chance to pick up the fine points of the game than the California boys. It is expected that the visitors will prove a great help to the college boys, as their passing should prove much better than the local players and this should give the local players ample opportunity to judge for themselves the fatal mistake of holding the ball too long.

Rugby is it is played at the colleges at the present time is made a trifle slower than it should be from the fact that the members of the team insist on holding the ball, when by passing it on to some other member of the team a few yards may be gained.

The game tomorrow should attract a large crowd, not only because the game has the prospects of being a good one, but for the reason that the Vancouver fifteen will not doubt prove the team by which the lovers of the football game are to pick the probable winner of the big game.

Alvin Greggains and Jack Gleason are still in the air, one regarding a permit to hold a boxing contest and the other a boxing contest to fill a date allowed by the supervisors. The Thomas-Ketchel return match is also involved in the mix-up, which should be definitely settled today, when the supervisors either give Gleason some encouragement as to his chances to get a permit or turn him down and hand him the pass to the down and out club, a thing that they have been doing with great regularity of late.

Gleason has promised the fighters that he will inform them this afternoon whether or not he will be able to handle their contest, which will mean that the fighters will immediately go to Greggains and try to induce him to handle the affair if Jack fails to secure encouragement.

Joe O'Connor, who it was claimed insisted on a bonus from the club manager for Ketchel, denies that he demanded a bonus and also says that all he said to Greggains was that he would have to wait until he and Ketchel had been released from Gleason. With the manager talking thus it would seem that Greggains has a chance to stage the contest after all.

The contest between Memsie and McFarland which Greggains has had on tap for a long time is still a long ways off, as to the writer the three hours difference in the weighing in time will prove a barrier to the match that will be hard to overcome.

L. C. Keating, who is representing Memsie says he is ready to sign at a moment's notice and post any kind of a forfeit that Memsie will make the required $32 at 5 o'clock, which he claims is the weight that Greggains wants the men to meet at.

Said Keating last night: "Greggains informs me that he will not sign up a contest in which the articles call for a ring-side weight, so with the promoter taking this stand I don't see where McFarland has a chance to demand his ring-side weight."

Memsie is in Los Angeles, but Keating says he expects him here shortly. If the match with McFarland is made Memsie will train in Oakland under the direction of Professor Lewis, who has prepared him for many battles in the past.

Walter Stanton, the Point Richmond scrapper who appeared in the short distance contest around the bay some time ago, is still doing well in the far East and if he keeps up the gait he is now traveling he will soon be fighting the best of the eastern welter weights in the main events of the Philadelphia and New York city clubs.

Last week in the semi-final of the National Athletic Club of Philadelphia, he bested Jack Fitzgerald, the Philadelphia welter, in handy style.

Stanton on the coast was considered a good man, but not by any means a top notcher and he must have either improved a great deal or the men he is meeting are a line set of near-fighters.

If the local clubs do not get together and select an opponent for Joe Thomas they may lose him. The Davenport Athletic Club wants his services with Billy Fakpe, the fast coming middle weight who has been winning of late with great regularity.

The club has offered a $3000 guaranteed purse or a percentage of the house for the fight. If the Ketchel contest does not come off Thomas may accept the offer, as he is anxious to keep going and realizes that the only way he can make any money is to keep fighting and get as much as he can for his services.

Stanford Ready For Nevada Game STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 22.—All the attention of the coaches and Rugby players is now directed toward preparation for the football game with the University of Nevada, which will be played on the turf field, Wednesday. The Nevada men arrived on the campus this forenoon and are being entertained at the various fraternity houses. They came out of their game with California in good shape, and will spend the time until Wednesday, in rest and light practice. This afternoon they took a walk round the University and campus, with their trainers. They attribute their defeat at Berkeley to the fact that they were out-weighted, and were not skillful enough at passing, and declare that California will be a hard opponent for Stanford in the big game.

The Cardinal players, with the exception of three, whose regular home was broken in Saturday's game, are in fine shape and hope to defeat Nevada by a large margin. George's injury may not keep him out of the game all season, and he will keep in condition by track work in the morning. About fifty men showed up for practice this afternoon and were put to work passing and kicking, by Coaches Langan and Presley. As usual the last hour of practice was used for a game between the Varsity and second team, in which the first team men showed up well.

STATEMENT ON THE ORPHEUM

John Morrissey, Manager of San Francisco House, Makes a Few Corrections.

John Morrissey, manager of the San Francisco Orpheum who has assisted during the last few months in the arrangements for the new Oakland Orpheum's business, presents the reports that he was originally scheduled to manage the Oakland house and that he succeeded in "defeating the ends of those who desired to transfer him from San Francisco to Oakland on the Orpheum circuit, retaining his position in San Francisco."

The reports in question were given publicly in The Knave's correspondence in the issue of THE TRIBUNE on October 22. Mr. Morrissey today gave THE

TRIBUNE the following statement regarding the reports:

"Concerning the statements in THE TRIBUNE on October 13 relative to myself Mr. Morrissey and the business of the Orpheum Circuit Company in San Francisco and Oakland I desire to say that the statements are absolutely devoid of fact.

"The entire article is devoid of fact. Mr. Morrissey is president of the Orpheum and supreme in all that concerns it. My relations with him, which have lasted for a number of years have always been of the most friendly nature and I have always considered how I could best serve his interests. Were he to deem it for the best advantage of the Orpheum that I should take up my residence in Oakland I should immediately do so. He however prefers that I should continue at my old post in San Francisco. I am at a loss to understand how such an absurd and untruthful report could have gained circulation, for there is not the slightest foundation for it."

Quincy, Sprains and Swellings Cured.

"In November, 1901, I caught cold and had the quincy. My throat was swollen and I could hardly breathe. I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me relief in a short time. In two days I was all right," says Mrs. L. Cousins, Otterburn, Mich. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a salve and is especially valuable for sprains and swellings. For sale by O'Connell Bros., 7th and Broadway and 22, 24, 26 and 28th Street.

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE MARRIED

Second Groom Under Arrest, While Woman Flees Before Search of Police.

On the charge that he married deliberately Mrs. Rosie Eldridge of this city, knowing at the time that she had another husband, Lloyd Lewis, an attaché of the United States naval training station on Goat Island, was arrested yesterday afternoon and is held at the city prison. The complaint was sworn to by Edward W. Eldridge, first husband of Mrs. Eldridge Lewis.

At the time of the alleged bigamous marriage which was performed by the Rev. W. H. Van de Mark, at the County Clerk's office this city, on May 25, Eldridge was in Alaska in search of a fortune. He had no knowledge of his wife's alleged intimacy with the sailor and his first intimation that she had been false to him as he claims was received when he returned home recently and found that his home was deserted. The Eldridges formerly lived at 1001 Center street, this city.

Eldridge began search for his missing wife immediately and learned of her marriage with Lewis. He heard they were living on Yuba Beach Island. He consulted the police and subsequently swore out warrants for the arrest of his wife and her young husband.

Mrs. Eldridge-Lewis learned of her first husband's return and becoming frightened fled. When Detective Green, who had the warrants, called at the marine station to arrest the couple the woman was gone.

GOES TO NORTH

The Eldridges were married in San Francisco March 3, 1903.

Soon afterward Eldridge left for the north. He kept up a correspondence with his wife until recently, when her letters ceased. Fearing that she was ill, he settled his affairs and returned to Oakland to find that she was the wife of another man. The police are now seeking Mrs. Eldridge Lewis.

WRECKS AUTO TO AVOID COLLISION WITH CAR

In an endeavor to avoid a head-on collision with a street car at the corner of Twenty-ninth street and Broadway last evening Willard Williamson of Piedmont, turned his automobile over the curb and into the iron fence of the Grant school grounds.

The impact tore away three feet or more of the cement and twisted the iron railings like so many wires.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson were in the car and escaped injury which is regarded as miraculous by those who witnessed the accident. The right front wheel of the machine was torn away and the front part was considerably damaged. Williamson is a prominent attorney of this city and Mrs. Williamson is popular and a leader in social circles. They are being congratulated on their narrow escape.

The bid of the Oakland Traction Consolidated for a franchise for an electric line on Thirteenth avenue, Fourth avenue, White street and Matthews avenue was accepted by the City Council last night. The bid which amounted to $1000, was accompanied by the usual cash deposit of $100 and by a written promise to allow U. S. mail carriers to ride on the cars of the line.

AUTOIST'S INJURIES FOUND NOT SERIOUS

The many friends of Charles Rosenberg of 506 Twenty third avenue will be glad to know that the injuries which he sustained in the automobile accident at Healdsburg last Saturday are not as serious as were at first supposed.

Rosenberg's nose and arm were broken and he received some painful bruises but there is now no doubt but that he will recover. The report that he could not survive was unwarranted.
